

Textura to be featured on "21st Century Business"

Multi-media Productions (USA) is pleased to announce that Textura has been selected to appear on 21st Century Business, an award winning international television series. This series will focus on Construction Collaboration Solutions.

(EMAILWIRE.COM, July 21, 2011) Boca Raton, FL
-- It's hard to imagine that we ever got along without computers in the workplace. With paper billing and processing slowing every move, the digital alternative is being widely being leveraged to speed up this procedure, increase profitability margins and streamline business practices overall. . However, just a few short years ago back around 2004, it was recognized that the construction industry as a whole had yet to embrace the benefits that online technology represented. It was then that Textura® was born.

Textura provides the construction industry with the opportunity to take manual paper laden processes and automate them using the internet. They provide online invoicing and payment management solutions that leverage electronic signatures, automated workflow and electronic payments to bring efficiencies to the construction invoicing and payment process. With over 70,000 users across the United States & Canada, Textura–Construction Payment Management® is quickly becoming an industry standard.

Furthering its dedication to improving processes in construction invoicing and payment, Textura launched the Textura Management Dashboard, an application that combines Textura CPM's transactional data with customer data to create a rich project performance and reporting tool.

Most recently, Textura unveiled its third offering, Textura–Pre–Qualification Management™ (PQM). Textura–PQM leverages Textura's cutting edge collaboration platform to bring Subcontractors, Material suppliers, General Contractors & Owners together to automate key pre-qualification activities.

With award winning technology, world class customer support and consistent growth Textura continues to strengthen its position as the premier online collaboration platform for the construction industry.
