

GradeBeam.com and Contractor Score Announce Exclusive Marketing Agreement

New Service Improves Contractor Qualification Process, Market Reach and Ability to Partner

CHICAGO – December 6, 2011 – GradeBeam.com a division of Textura Corporation, the premier on-line communication network for contractors, and Contractor Score, a leading management consulting firm specializing in construction, announce an exclusive marketing agreement. Contractor Score will be offered through a special portal on GradeBeam.com to facilitate contractors effortlessly securing their “Contractor Score,” a measure of their financial and management capacity.

A “Contractor Score” is fast becoming a key gauge of a contractor’s capacity to meet a customer’s needs on a particular project. Many owners and general contractors across the United States and Canada now rely on a “Contractor Score” before deciding to partner with a contractor on a project. This is rapidly expanding the transparency between building owners, general contractors and subcontractors while facilitating an improved qualification process.

Bryan Jurewicz, President of GradeBeam.com, said “We are very pleased to offer Contractor Score to our clients. This additional service reinforces the added value we provide and further differentiates our solutions. We continually strive to find new and innovative services we can add to our application and our clients are our best source of ideas. Many contractors told us how much they valued ‘Contractor Score’ and how it was becoming an industry standard. We enjoy a strong working relationship with Contractor Score and look forward to our new partnership.”

“In any economic environment you want to know that the companies you collaborate with are financially sound and reliable,” said Glenn Matteson, President of Contractor Score. “With Contractor Score, contractors on GradeBeam.com will be better able to communicate their current financial and management capacity to each other in a simple and confidential way via a single number, much like a consumer credit rating. A ‘Contractor Score’ enables greater confidence among contractors to connect and work together through GradeBeam.com.”

Users will login to their GradeBeam.com account where they can acquire a Contractor Score through a strictly confidential qualification portal. Once they receive their “Contractor Score”, the contractor can choose to keep it private or to share it. The default is that the score will be kept strictly private. However, the contractor can chose to securely post the score and make it accessible to only those prospective partners with whom they elect to share their qualifications. Contractor Score and GradeBeam.com have partnered to seamlessly bring 21st century technology capabilities to contractors.
